

Guidance for the Transport Sector on Sanctioned Ships and Aircraft

About this guidance

Note this guidance is UNCLASSIFIED and approved for public release and website publication. There is an IN CONFIDENCE version of the guidance that contains contact information for the Civil Aviation Authority and Maritime New Zealand. If you work for a transport entity or other relevant organisation, and believe you need a copy of the IN CONFIDENCE version of this guidance, please contact Te Manatū Waka.

This guidance to the transport sector follows the decision of the New Zealand Government to impose sanctions to restrict some ships and aircraft from entering New Zealand, in response to Russia's invasion of Ukraine. This guidance has been issued by Te Manatū Waka Ministry of Transport, the Civil Aviation Authority, and Maritime New Zealand in consultation with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade and the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet.

This guidance provides the transport sector with information on those ships and aircraft that are restricted from entering New Zealand, the areas of New Zealand the ships and aircraft are restricted from, the exceptions to the restrictions, and the enforcement mechanisms for the restrictions. This guidance should be read together with the Russia Sanctions Regulations 2022.

This guidance does not constitute legal advice, and transport sector entities are encouraged to seek their own legal advice on any specific legal questions they may have.

Situation summary

The Russia Sanctions Act 2022 (the Act) enables New Zealand to impose and enforce sanctions in response to military actions by Russia, and by countries or persons who may be assisting Russia. The Act allows for sanctions to be set out in regulations, which can apply to persons, services, and assets (including ships and aircraft).

On 18 March 2022, the Russia Sanctions Regulations 2022 came into force. They impose sanctions that restrict some ships and aircraft (associated with Russia and Belarus) from entering New Zealand.

We note the restrictions are different for the maritime and aviation domains. Further details are below.

The previous version of this guidance was issued on 3 August 2022 at 12.45pm. This updated version, incorporates amendments made to the sanctions made through the Russia Sanctions Amendment Regulations (No.9) 2022, which came into force on 23 August 2022. These amendments extend the number of natural persons and entities sanctioned under the regulations to include entities associated with Russia's illegal invasion of Ukraine. The amendments include leaders of the Donetsk and Luhansk Peoples' Republics, and senior officials of so-called administrations in other occupied regions such as Kherson and Zaporizhzhia.

Maritime sanctions

Ships subject to the sanctions

The ships¹ subject to the sanctions, and which are 'restricted ships', are:

- ships owned or controlled by the governments of Russia or Belarus
- military ships of Russia or Belarus
- ships chartered or operated by, or on behalf of, the governments of Russia or Belarus
- ships owned or controlled<sup>2</sup> by a specified sanctioned person subject to clause 8 of the Regulations (note the amendments made through Russia Sanctions Amendment Regulations (No.9) 2022)
- ships chartered of operated by, or on behalf of, a specified sanctioned person subject to clause 8 of the Regulations (note the amendments made through Russia Sanctions Amendment Regulations (No.9) 2022)
- ships registered in the name of specified sanctioned person subject to clause 8 of the Regulations (note the amendments made through Russia Sanctions Amendment Regulations (No.9) 2022).

However, a ship is not a restricted ship if it is a New Zealand ship or a New Zealand-owned ship<sup>3</sup>.

Please note not all ships flagged to Russia or Belarus are 'restricted ships'. Only the above-mentioned ships are 'restricted ships'.

Restricted activity

'Restricted ships' are restricted from entering a port in New Zealand, unless an exception applies. A New Zealand person<sup>5</sup> may commit an offence under the Act if they, without lawful justification or excuse, knowingly or recklessly breach a sanction. A breach may occur if they:

- operate a restricted ship entering a port in New Zealand, unless an exception applies; or
- permit or authorise a restricted ship to enter a port in New Zealand, unless an exception applies.<sup>6</sup>

Please note the sanctions do not restrict a 'restricted ship' operating within New Zealand's Exclusive Economic Zone or undertaking 'innocent passage'<sup>7</sup> in New Zealand's territorial sea. Only entry into New Zealand ports is restricted.

Please note that the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade has published a Russian Sanctions Register on its website, and ships that are subject to the Sanctions that that government is aware of will be added to This Register.

UNCLASSIFIED - FOR WEBSITE PUBLICATION

&lt;sup>1</sup> See definition of ship at clause 8(5) of the Regulations

Exceptions to restricted activity

The Regulations provide exceptions to the restrictions. This means that, for otherwise 'restricted ships' may enter New Zealand ports:

- in a situation where an individual or ship is in danger or distress; or
- if the person is acting for the purpose of, or in connection with, the enforcement or intended enforcement of the Act.<sup>8</sup>

Enforcement

There is no enforcement mechanism in place to physically prevent or deter a 'restricted ship' from entering a port in New Zealand. If a 'restricted ship' enters a port in New Zealand in violation of the sanction's regime, there are civil and criminal enforcement options available to the Government under the Act.

If a ship has requested entry into a port in New Zealand, but the ship is a 'restricted ship', Maritime New Zealand should be contacted.

If a ship has entered a port in New Zealand, and the ship is a 'restricted ship':

- Maritime New Zealand should be contacted.
- a report should also be made to the New Zealand Police using the Police 105 report form.

We note this situation may occur if the information that the ship is a 'restricted ship' only becomes available after the ship has entered port, or if the ship enters port without permission or authorisation.

Aviation sanctions

Aircraft subject to the sanctions

The aircraft subject to the sanctions, and which are 'restricted aircraft', are:

- aircraft registered in Russia or Belarus
- aircraft owned or controlled by the governments of Russia or Belarus
- military aircraft of Russia or Belarus
- aircraft chartered or operated by, or on behalf of, the governments of Russia or Belarus
- aircraft owned or controlled by a specified sanctioned person subject to clause 9 of the Regulations (note the amendments made through Russia Sanctions Amendment Regulations (No.9) 2022)
- aircraft chartered or operated by, or on behalf of, a specified sanctioned person subject to clause 9 of the Regulations (note the amendments made through Russia Sanctions Amendment Regulations (No.9) 2022)
- aircraft registered in the name of a specified sanctioned person subject to clause 9 of the Regulations (note the amendments made through Russia Sanctions Amendment Regulations (No.9) 2022).

Please note, unlike the maritime sanctions, all aircraft registered in Russia or Belarus are 'restricted aircraft'.<sup>9</sup>

Please note that the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade has published a Russian Sanctions Register on its website, and aircraft that are subject to the Sanctions that the government is aware of will be added to This Register.

Restricted activity

The 'restricted aircraft' are restricted from entering the territorial airspace of New Zealand (this includes overflight), unless an exception applies. A New Zealand person<sup>10</sup> may commit an offence under they Act if they, without lawful justification or excuse, knowingly or recklessly:

- operate a restricted aircraft entering the territorial airspace of New Zealand, unless an exception applies
- permit or authorise a restricted aircraft to enter the territorial airspace of New Zealand, unless an exception applies.<sup>11</sup>

Please note the sanctions do not restrict a 'restricted aircraft' operating within the Auckland Oceanic Flight Information Region. Also please note the definition of 'territorial airspace of New Zealand' is geographically different to the designated New Zealand Flight Information Region. <sup>12</sup>

Exceptions to restricted activity

The Regulations provide exceptions to the restrictions for otherwise 'restricted aircraft' entering the territorial airspace of New Zealand:

- for an emergency landing
- in the situation where an individual or aircraft is in danger or distress
- if the person is acting for the purpose of, or in connection with, the enforcement or intended enforcement of the Act.<sup>13</sup>

Enforcement

There is no enforcement mechanism in place to physically prevent or deter a 'restricted aircraft' from entering New Zealand territorial airspace. If a 'restricted aircraft' enters the territorial airspace of New Zealand in violation of the sanction's regime, there are civil and criminal enforcement options available to the Government under the Act.

If an aircraft has requested entry into the territorial airspace of New Zealand or to land at a New Zealand airport, but the aircraft is a 'restricted aircraft', the Civil Aviation Authority should be contacted.

If an aircraft has entered the territorial airspace of New Zealand or landed at a New Zealand airport, and the aircraft is a 'restricted aircraft':

- the Civil Aviation Authority should be contacted,
- a report should also be made to the New Zealand Police using the Police 105 report form.

We note this situation may occur if the information that the aircraft is a 'restricted aircraft' only becomes available after the aircraft has entered the territorial airspace of New Zealand

or landed at a New Zealand airport, or if the aircraft enters the territorial airspace of New Zealand or lands at an airport in New Zealand without permission or authorisation.
