

Air Navigation System Review - Our Approach and Plan

Our Purpose

To set the strategic direction for the air navigation system

Our tasks

Review the system’s policy, regulatory institutional and funding settings

Why now

The Crown’s high-level statement of system principles and objectives is out of date

System settings may not be sufficiently responsive to technology change and innovation

A changing policy and operating environment is placing new demands on the system

New Zealand is not alone in looking ahead. Several states have commenced similar reviews

The digital age is providing development opportunities but come with new and emerging risks

How we do it

The Review’s strategic approach and character

Our Process

Current state assessment and case for change

Future state vision and design principles/objectives

Assessing current state against future vision and design principles/objectives

Findings and recommendation stage

Conclusion and presentation to government
